Media Update: 3 Discharged, 2 Still Under Treatment and Activities at Open-pit Will Resume

Three out of five injured employees who were involved in a collision between a light vehicle and a haul truck at the Grasberg Open Pit Mine on September 27, 2014 have recovered and been discharged from Tembagapura hospital. Whereas two other injured employees are presently receiving intensive treatment in Jakarta. "Their condition has been significantly improved. PTFI will continue to provide the necessary medical treatments for our injured employees and hope for their speedy recovery", said PTFI's Spokesperson, Daisy Primayanti.

Furthermore, the investigation process led by the Mine Inspector from the Ministry of Energy and Mineral Resources for the accident on September 27, 2014 is expected to be concluded soon. "We continue to work cooperatively with Mine Inspectors to determine the cause of the accident," said Daisy

Currently, the area where the accident took place is still closed pending investigation process. Meanwhile, the access in and out of the Grasberg Open Pit Mine has been opened at 5:15 Eastern Indonesia after it was blocked yesterday by a group of employees. However, after having an open discussion on operational safety, the road blocks has now been opened and therefore the operational activity in the open pit mine can continue.
